CONSTRUCTION GRID

DESIGN PRINCIPLES

- Geometric
- Balanced
- Distinctive
- Scalable

Geometric construction should remain consistent.

Clear Space

Protect the logo with a consistent breathing zone.

No text, imagery, UI, or graphic element should enter the defined clear space.

CLEAR SPACE

Minimum buffer = 1x logo symbol unit

Use the same clear-space rule across digital, print, presentations, and physical applications.

Minimum Size

Keep the logo legible at every touchpoint.

The minimum size is a practical safeguard for readability, not a target size.

Digital — Preferred
150px width

Digital — Minimum
120px width

Print — Minimum
100px width

Small UI / Icon
70px width

Rule Never reduce the full lockup below the point where the “repskill” wordmark loses clear readability.

Logo Color Variations

Use only approved logo colorways.

Select the version that creates sufficient contrast with its background.

Color Usage & Transparency

Transparency is a supporting tool—not a substitute for the core palette. Use opacity to create depth, hierarchy, and quiet UI surfaces.

Color Usage & Proportion

Balance the palette so Orange remains an intentional signal.

The palette should feel mostly neutral, with color introduced to guide attention and communicate state.

Do

Neutral canvas + focused orange action

Use action color sparingly.

Balance

Teal/Cyan support the experience

Let secondary colors support.

Avoid

Orange as full-page wallpaper

Keep brand expression controlled.

Color Combination

Recommended combinations for clear, recognizable brand expression.

Use one dominant base, one functional accent, and optional support color.

Use color to clarify the message—not compete with it.

DO

- ✓ Use Orange for actions and emphasis
- ✓ Use Slate for trusted primary content
- ✓ Use Teal/Cyan for AI and progress
- ✓ Keep backgrounds mostly neutral

DON'T

- ✗ Use random brand colors
- ✗ Turn every element into an accent
- ✗ Use low-contrast text/background pairs
- ✗ Apply gradients or effects to the logo
